

DESIGN

The 11th Budapest Central European Fashion Week kicked off with a new concept

HYPER&HYPER · 9 02 2023

This time, Hungarian and regional designers showcased their new season collections not at the usual catwalk shows, but at presentations.

We use cookies on our website to give you the most relevant experience by remembering your preferences and repeat visits. By clicking "Accept", you consent to the use of ALL the cookies.

ACCEPT

and Archives, where nearly a thousand people came to see the autumn-winter 2023/24 collections made by Hungarian brands, as well as two Slovak and two Polish designers.

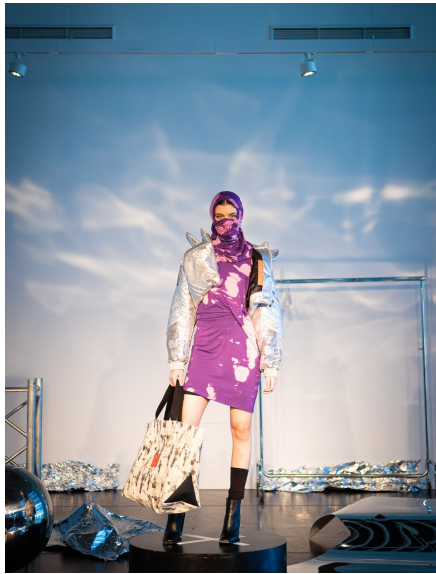

As part of the conceptual change, the MDDÜ has set up the Advisory Board in January 2023, whose primary goal is to improve the performance and attractiveness of the fashion sector in Central and Eastern Europe, to develop a more efficient support system focusing on national and regional designers and young talent, and to discuss current issues affecting the fashion industry, taking into account various sustainability and technological aspects. The panel also included local experts such as Violetta Fedorova, online editor-in-chief of Ukrainian Vogue magazine, Aleksandra Szol, e-commerce, marketing and creative director of MODIVO and Péter Baldaszti,

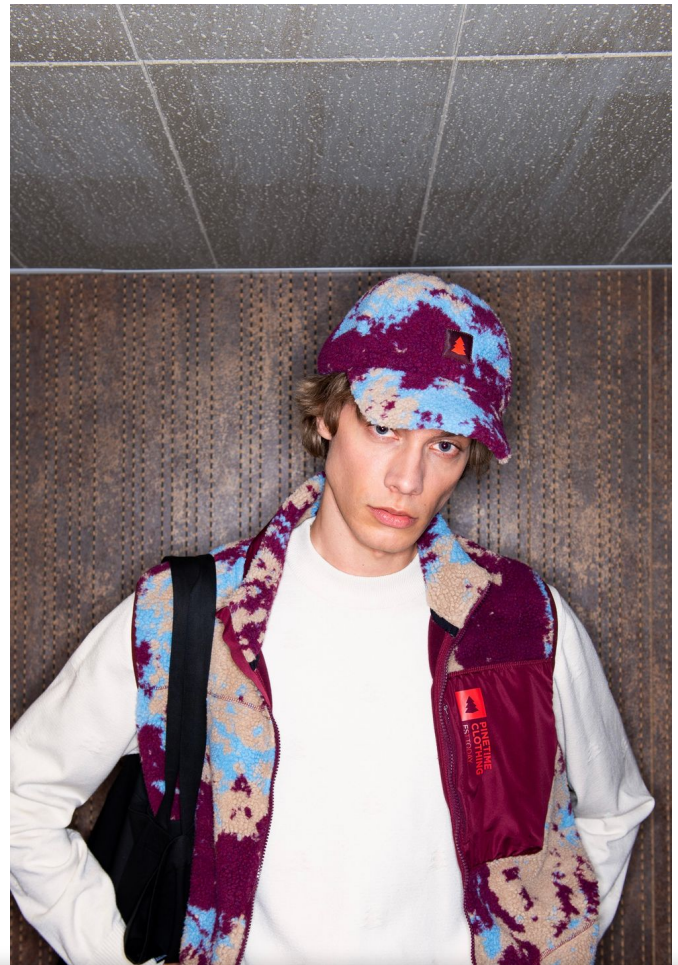

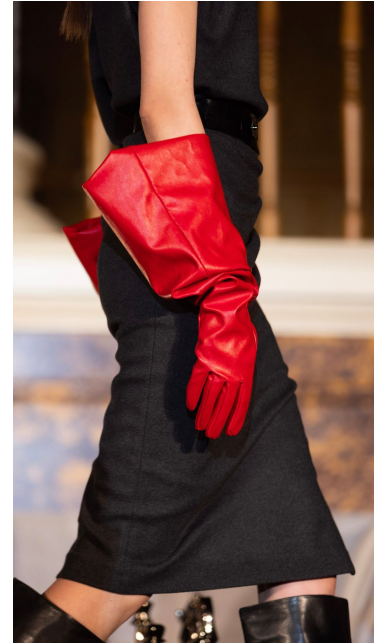

We use cookies on our website to give you the most relevant experience by remembering your preferences and repeat visits. By clicking "Accept", you consent to the use of ALL the cookies.

Hype&Hyper

We use cookies on our website to give you the most relevant experience by remembering your preferences and repeat visits. By clicking "Accept", you consent to the use of ALL the cookies.

We use cookies on our website to give you the most relevant experience by remembering your preferences and repeat visits. By clicking "Accept", you consent to the use of ALL the cookies.

Source: Press release

DESIGN, HFDA, BCEFW, BUDAPEST CENTRAL EUROPEAN FASHION WEEK, FASHION

MORE TO READ

DESIGN

Ray Eames steps out of the shadows in a new exhibition | Ray's Hand

An exciting online exhibition gives you a behind-the-scenes peek into the process of the brilliant designer and artist Ray Eames' iconic objects. Probably no one needs an introduction to the Eames couple: working together in the mid-20th century, Charles and Ray laid the foundation for modern design. The work of

We use cookies on our website to give you the most relevant experience by remembering your preferences and repeat visits. By clicking "Accept", you consent to the use of ALL the cookies.

DESIGN

Knitwear that hides its wearer from facial recognition

Facial recognition programs are useful in many areas of life, but many people fear for their privacy as these programs proliferate. Italian company Cap_able has found a rather stylish solution to this problem, launching a line of clothing that protects the wearer's biometric data without the need to

We use cookies on our website to give you the most relevant experience by remembering your preferences and repeat visits. By clicking "Accept", you consent to the use of ALL the cookies.

An ingenious solution was found in Koberice, near the city of Brno. For this village of seven hundred inhabitants, architects at Atelier Walter designed a multifunctional wonder where you can spend your waiting time with a little sightseeing. Atelier Walter has designed a compact bus stop that, despite its size,

Hype&Hyper

ABOUT

STORE

PRIVACY POLICY

FOLLOW US

SIGN UP FOR THE NEWSLETTER

EMAIL ADDRESS

By registering you agree to accept the Terms & Conditions and have read the Privacy Policy.

We use cookies on our website to give you the most relevant experience by remembering your preferences and repeat visits. By clicking "Accept", you consent to the use of ALL the cookies.